DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a prefix search key apparatus wherein the number of memory banks is determined by at least the number of ordinates within an n-dimension representation, the n-dimension representation defining a coordinate system, each bank associated with one of the ordinates within the n-dimension representation and converting the masked key into an n-dimension representation having a plurality of ordinates, classified in class 711, subclasses 5, 104.
 - II. Claims 9-16, drawn to a prefix search key system wherein a result index multiplexer receives one or more match results and the priority signal, the resulting index multiplexer selecting the match result to output based on the priority signal classified in class 711, subclass 104.
 - III. Claims 17-24, drawn to a method of determining the longest prefix key match in a database wherein the masked key is converted to an n-dimension representation classified in class 711, subclass 104.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention II does not require a number of memory banks in an n-dimension configuration. The subcombination I has separate utility such as use in a system where a multiplexer is not used for the selection of a prefix key match result.

3. Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention III does not require a number of memory banks in an n-dimension configuration. The subcombination I has separate utility such as use in a system where memory locations are referenced by ordinates in an n-dimension bank representation.

4. Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention II does not require converting a masked key to an n-dimension representation. The subcombination III has separate utility such as use in a system where a multiplexer is not used for the selection of a prefix key match result.

5. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. The Examiner's attempts to contact applicant's attorney were not successful.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103 (a) of the other invention.
